

JORDI ALCARAZ

ABOUT

Alcaraz incorporates a large number of different materials into his minimalist works, such as metal, wood, paper, books, ceramics, as well as transparent objects, such as plexiglass (which he sometimes modifies by bending or melting holes in it). He does not make much use of traditional painting media and colours, but instead uses the interplay between shadow and light with different materials and surfaces. The sharp black lines of ink and metallic thread create circular and angular shapes amidst three-dimensional layers.

The artist draws an invisible line between visual poetry and conceptual projection, and proposes to the viewer an unprecedented, surprising and metaphorical relationship with the world. A multidisciplinary hybridisation, in which Alcaraz's discourse, which stems from the classical plastic tradition, meditates on volume, language and time through the use of certain materials.

Transgressor, creator of a game of confronting glances, of material tensions and perforations that allow us to glimpse hidden and magical spaces that transcend optical exclusivity.

He has had numerous solo and group exhibitions all over the world, including United States, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Spain, Canada and Switzerland. His works are part of several collections around the world, including MACBA in Barcelona and Yale University.
